

Abstract

This report presents a method of testing programming tools support for component programming in general, and COM components in particular. The method is then used to evaluate the development environment Centura Team Developer's capacity in this area. This assessment is built up in three steps, where different aspects of component programming are tested.